Looking the News Over With Col. Hugh Clark

A MAGICIAN declares that it is easier to fool an intelligent audience than a dull one. Thanks ever so much. We never were able to see through those tricks.

A Washington correspondent says that party managers are losing sleep over defections from their ranks. We have understood that a good way to induce sleep is count sheep jumping over the fence from one field to another.

A Brooklyn man offers to give his wife as a hostage for the return of the Lindbergh baby. Which recalls a story that Hon. Dr. Tolmie, prime minister of British Columbia, used to tell. A man received a Black Hand letter in which he was told that, if he did not leave $2,000 at a specified time, his wife would be killed. At that specified place and time, all the Black Handers got was a letter saying "I haven't the money but I am interested in your proposition just the same."

Six years is a long time, and those republican Irishmen just got tired being good and quiet, so they did.

Sir Oliver Lodge, testifying in a libel action, declared that he had communications with denizens of the other world and they told him it was "a world of illusions in which they can get whatever they want." We seem to have a hazy recollection of living there three or four years ago.

"Ain't Science Wonderful" Asked by Justice McCardie where those denizens of the other world reside, Sir Oliver replied: "In space," and he defined space as "the thing in the universe that takes up all the room."

Those unpronounceable names of Fianna Fail members are Gaelic or Erse. Translated into English, the list would sound like a roll-call of New York City officials.

A newspaper started quite a discussion recently by asking if any of its readers ever saw anyone drop a collection plate in church. It seems to have happened often according to the correspondence which resulted. Here's one: Did you ever see queues lined up along the street on a Sunday, waiting for the church doors to open. We saw them once—in Edinburgh, Scotland. Nothing special. Just the regular morning service.

A man claims to have invented a fool-proof pen-point that will stand all sorts of hard usage. Scptical as ever, we will believe it after it has successfully weathered a week's engagement at the post office.

This definition has been attributed to Gladstone: "Deputation—a noun of number, signifying many, but not signifying much." A "monster deputation," such as the ten thousand who wished to interview the Newfoundland premier, signifies much as well as many. The intent is to overcome, to intimidate, to make up by force of numbers what it may lack in forcefulness of argument or just persuasion. Every prime minister with any experience knows how a huge deputation is organized and how an avalanche of letters, telegrams and resolutions.

Bill Recore to Coach Vulcan Ball Team

Bill Recore has been appointed to represent Vulcan on the league committee composed of one member from each of the towns in the league, namely: Vulcan, Blackie, High River, Nanton and Stavely. He will also act as manager and coach for Vulcan team.

Baseball in Vulcan has centred around Bill Recore for the last fifteen years. He has always been the mainstay of the Club on the diamond and his enthusiasm and organization work has been responsible in no small degree for the success that Vulcan has had in baseball in the last number of years.

He is deserving of a great deal of credit and the people of the town and district could show appreciation in no better way than to turn out to the games that will be played here this summer and bring a little excitement to our own district.

This will be very encouraging to both Bill and the number of younger players of the town who will be out there endeavoring to keep Vulcan on the sport map of Southern Alberta.

The league schedule will be printed in this paper in the near future.

WHERE MURDER COMES EASY

The United States has a death rate from homicide of 10.9, the highest in the world. In Canada it is 1.6 per 100,000. Last year Windsor had no murders, Detroit had 10.8 per 100,000. Chicago had a homicide rate of 14.1 last year, as against 14.4 the year before. A survey discloses that the rate for New York city was 8.3 in 1931 and 7.1 in 1930. In contrast are the low rates for English cities; that of London was only 0.8 in 1931 and that of Liverpool 0.5. In other words to every eight deaths from homicide per 100,000 of population in London there were 83 deaths from homicide in New York and 141 deaths in Chicago.

SPROUTS ON EARLY POTATOES

In planning for an early supply of potatoes for either home use or for market gardens, it is advisable: (1) to use an early maturing sort; (2) to have the potatoes sprouted at the time of planting; (3) to plant early, and (4) to keep the potatoes well cultivated.

Experiments conducted at Brandon Experimental Farm go to show the Early Bovee to be ready for use before either Early Ohio or Irish Cobbler. The tests have further indicated that having the sprouts on the tubers at planting time shortens the time between planting and emergence of the plants. While it is generally recommended that these sprouts should be green, yet the writer has found it is possible to take the whole potatoes directly from the basement with sprouts several inches long plant these and in two or three days have green leaves showing, and good crops have resulted. Where only a few potatoes are to be planted, this latter method is quite satisfactory.

Report has it that the attempt to wreck a C.P.R. train on the Kettle Valley road was made by a radical, who was told that the baggage car contained the Canadian navy, being shipped to Crows' Nest Lake to act if the Reds caused trouble in the Crows' Nest Pass coal fields.—Blairmore Enterprise.

His station has been in contact with similar amateurs all over the continent, but has yet the thrill of overseas conversation to make. ### MOTHER'S DAY

Mother's Day emphasizes the sanctity of the home, throws a halo round motherhood and unites parents and children together in blessed ties of loving union and sweet remembrance.

We can express our affection for our mothers by flowers or tokens, but we should not forget that the purest and most acceptable mark of love we can offer them is our filial devotion expressed in heartfelt prayers.

There are some mothers separated from their children by long distances. They sit wearily waiting perhaps for the letter that never comes. Mother's Day is a reminder that mother's love and faith and hope never fail and an incentive to prove that there is no sundering of hearts between the mother who waits and the child that remembers. Thus we can make Mother's Day a white-winged messenger of affection that will carry cheer and consolation to the hearts of mothers.

At the same time we can make it a time of spiritual regeneration for ourselves by recalling the lessons of faith and virtue we learned at our mother's knee and by resolving anew to be the strong, upright men and women that our mothers want us to be.—Catholic Record.

FEWER BUT BETTER

Many suggestions are being considered in these days for the reduction of taxes and general expenses. There is, under consideration, the centralization of the Western provinces to reduce governmental costs. Some are of the opinion that the future of agriculture lies in centralized farms. The Hanna Herald advances the idea that the present trend is toward fewer and better towns and villages, and that unless these have a strong strategic position they will pass away. The Herald says:

"It would appear that the tendency of future development in the upbuilding of our country will be towards fewer and better towns and villages. Our provincial life was planned for horse drawn vehicles. In the midst of that development the automobile age commenced. The result has been a drain of population from those towns and villages which lacked strategic locations.

"Fewer and better towns and villages would be of advantage to the agricultural life of the province. These centres of population could be built up to give real service to the adjacent countryside, in the way of better schools, hospitals, public libraries, theatres, stores, agencies, professional services and newspapers. In other words, a town or village would become a real community centre.

"The automobile is here to stay and the future history of our towns and villages will be built on a basis of this means of travel. Those communities which have progressive business and professional men among their inhabitants—people who give the highest type of service at the most reasonable cost—will grow steadily, leaving the backward towns and villages to slowly perish by the roadside."

While in the abstract, there may be good reasons why one good town is better and more economical than four little villages, yet there will be a strong sentimental reaction against it. Every little village has been the outgrowth of some need, and in the course of years, has built up a community sentiment about it. Its citizens take pride in it and their happiness is wrapped in its well-being. If the age of efficiency descends upon us, centralizing provinces, towns and farms, it will not be without considerable heart-burning and bitterness. There is a great deal to be said for inefficiency, although it does not add up favorably.

WEST MUST WATCH

Although Great Britain has been preparing for the Economic Conference, for months, it is only recently that the average Canadian has thought of it except as "another one of those." It is become of greatly increased importance since Britain launched a tariff policy, thereby enabling her to meet preference with preference. What it might mean to Western Canada is disposal of her wheat, opens up an immediate prospect of economic recovery. But what it actually will mean is something not predictable.

Mayor Webb of Winnipeg, speaking in Calgary said recently: "Ninety per cent. of the prosperity of Canada depends on exports of wheat, cattle, lumber, fruit and minerals. All these are obtainable from the four Western provinces. It is time for farmers organizations and business concerns to act immediately. All classes and shades of political opinion should immediately take steps to find out what the Conference means to Canada and the Empire. We do know that Eastern manufacturers are lobbying for their own selfish interests and are not considering the Western provinces at all."

Mayor Webb is himself a staunch Conservative but his note of warning is issued to every organization of Western Canada regardless of petty politics. He recognizes the influence, to put it mildly, of manufacturing interests on the Ottawa government. If that influence is permitted to dominate Canada's action at the Conference, the Western provinces may look for little consideration.

British newspapers are giving much study to the coming gathering and are considering the imports and exports of the different Dominions. In the case of Canada, they are regarding particularly her imports from United States. One paper quotes the fact that Canada imported from United States $868,000,000 in 1928-29 and only $194,000,000 from Britain. It is these American imports which the British delegates will scrutinize carefully and it is in these that she will expect concessions.

On the other hand Canadian delegates will surely have full information on all the products which Britain imports. Amongst these, food products loom largely and it is in these that Britain will be able to give most helpful preference to Canada. If the case for farm products in return for manufactured products is not presented very strongly at the Ottawa conference then the Conference will mean little or nothing to Western welfare.

LOWER INTEREST

There is no such thing as a fixed opinion nowadays, and one by one the leading newspapers are falling into line in urging a reduction of interest charges.

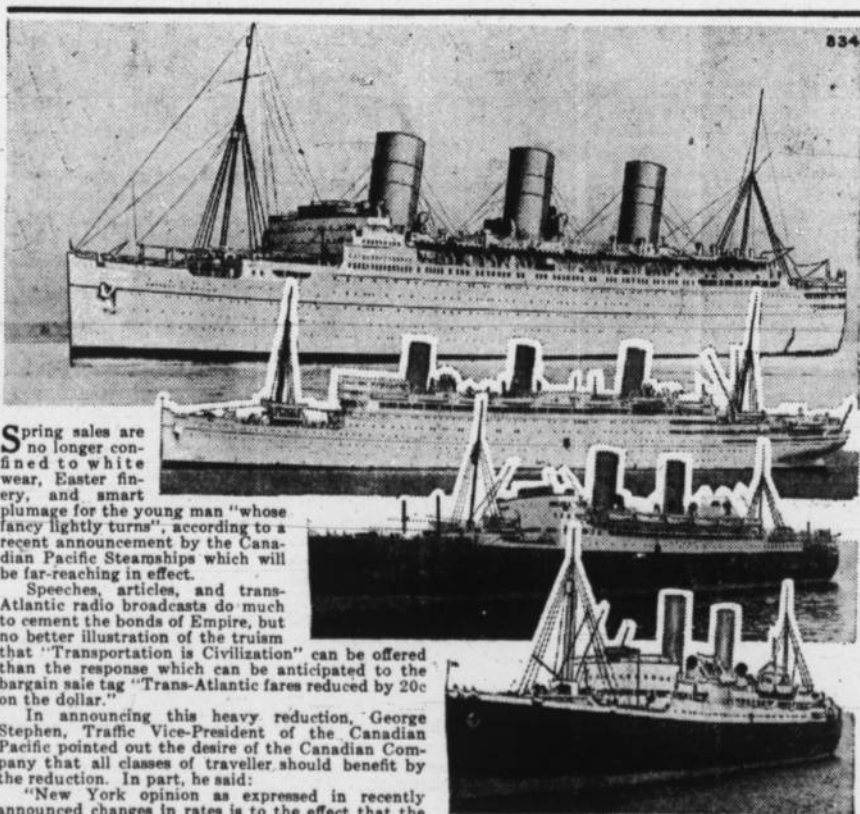

Premier Brownlee spoke strongly on this national handicap, to the Winnipeg Board of Trade recently. Although his attention was focused on the plight of the farmer, other industries might well have been included. The action of Federal and Provincial governments in conceding high interest rates in their recent loans, has placed the private borrower in impossibly difficult circumstances. No industry in these times can afford to pay the high rates, made possible through the precedent established by governments. There can be no revival of business, unless money can be secured on easier terms than at present exist. And the immovable attitude of the government and banks, finds little sympathy.

The position of the agricultural industry is the "most conspicuous example and in regard to this position Premier Brownlee urged "that a sweeping scaling down of farmer's debts by voluntary adjustment is the only method by which farmers can exist on the land and the agricultural industry be saved."

It is unnecessary to enlarge upon the deflation in farm products and farm land values. Most of these are lower than at any time since 1914. It takes three times the amount of wheat, that it would have taken three years ago, to pay exactly the same charges. In a less degree this is true of every product the farm has to sell. And in a less degree also, it is true of almost every commodity, that is bought and sold throughout the country. But money maintains its rates as if it had no connection with or dependence on general business vitality.

Unless agriculture is prosperous, the country as a whole cannot be prosperous, and agriculture cannot lift its head until the burdens of debt under which it staggers are adjusted reasonably. Even the Financial Post, has risen to a realization of the situation in saying: "In coming years, many hundreds of millions of dollars will be written off farm debts in order that agriculture may start its process of rebuilding with as clean a sheet as possible."

The Massey Harris Co., a private concern has shown a practical recognition of the situation in its 10 per cent cut. This is a sympathetic move, but it is isolated. Governmental and banking action will have to be taken to reduce interest rates to a parity with what the people are able to pay. Otherwise agriculture cannot recover and all industries will stagnate.

Spring sales are no longer confined to white wear, Easter finery, and smart plumage for the young man "whose fancy lightly turns", according to a recent announcement by the Canadian Pacific Steamships which will be far-reaching in effect.

Speeches, articles, and trans-Atlantic radio broadcasts do much to cement the bonds of Empire, but no better illustration of the truism that "Transportation is Civilization" can be offered than the response which can be anticipated to the bargain sale tag "Trans-Atlantic fares reduced by 20c on the dollar."

In announcing this heavy reduction, George Stephen, Traffic Vice-President of the Canadian Pacific pointed out the desire of the Canadian Company that all classes of traveller should benefit by the reduction. In part, he said:

"New York opinion as expressed in recently announced changes in rates is to the effect that the higher classes of travel should get most advantage to the detriment of the large volume of passengers who cannot afford under present conditions to pay the higher grade of fares and who desire to take advantage of the up-to-date Third Class rooms, appointments and service at their disposal in modern ships."

Other specimen reductions are, Empress of Britain, first class, minimum $250 to $200.

Duchesses, Cabin minimum $160 to $128.

Montcalm, Montclare, Montrose, Cabin minimum $140 to $112.

Round trip Tourist rates show a drop on the Empress of Britain from $216 to $172. On the Empress of Australia and the Duchesses from $194 to $156, and on the Mont class ships from $185 to $148, while in the Third Class the Empress of Britain Round Trip rate drops from $145 to $116, the Empress of Australia and the Duchesses from $140 to $112, and the Mont class ships from $136 to $108.

ALBERTA CATTLE WELCOMED

Satisfaction Shown by Foreign Buyers in Alberta Product

Local farmers who consider that the Red Label Beef project of Lethbridge district, offers an example that this district might profit by, will find confirmation in the recent comments on young Alberta cattle, made by W.R. Brown, a large British buyer.

He complimented the producers of western cattle on the high quality produced. "Your cattle ship well, dress out well, and find a ready sale. The big stuff we used to import are not now wanted, and we require young animals, but at a price which will allow us to compete with the chilled beef from the Argentine."

"Of 24,000 head of beef cattle imported last year, our firm handled over 14,000 head," he stated at the conclusion of his visit. "We have been handling Canadian cattle for generations. We like them and would be delighted to get more like those I have seen on my trip in the province."

These cattle of which Mr. Brown speaks are from the feed lots round Lethbridge, Raymond and Calgary.

During his visit he purchased 1100 head of cattle from P. Burns Company, and 200 head from L. McKinnon at a price above the figures that could be obtained on the local market.

Mr. Jack Byers of the Council of Western Beef Producers, says:

"Our feeders, with the experience gained during the past few years, are now better able to meet high finish demand, with the right weight cattle that exports demand," he continued. "That satisfaction is being given to the exporter is evidenced by the number of enquiries now being received for space by the council."

"Twenty-three carloads left Calgary and Lethbridge last week for shipments via Montreal to Liverpool and Glasgow, and our difficulty at present is to obtain the ocean space to fill all the inquiries."

Mr. Byers produced a cable received from England to the effect that Canadian cattle which arrived at Birkenhead via steamship Manchester Commerce, were in good condition and of the best quality and that the price obtained was in line with the best Irish at 17 to 17½ cents in sink. Some of the cattle were held over, and it was suggested that higher prices were likely owing to limited supply of fat cattle.

Home Market

The home market should be more promising than ever Mr. Byers states as the demand for graded beef is keener and there is also the fact that not only is the Old Country market more active but eastern buyers are securing export cattle in Alberta. At present there is not nearly the number of cattle in the feed lots as a year ago.

Earlier in the season than usual, buyers of stockers and feeders for the Ontario and Quebec markets are inquiring for a considerable number of Alberta cattle.

THE HERALD OF YOUR TOWN

Weekly Newspaper Which Represents You, Carries Word of You Far and Wide

As a merchant prides himself on the quality of the merchandise he sells, or a manufacturer on the quality of the goods he turns out, so a newspaper editor takes satisfaction in the appearance of his paper, the manner in which it is supported and the use made of it by other editors from which to clip news articles and editorial comment; and in this respect we cannot refrain from informing our readers of a circumstance that has lately come to light. The Dominion Press Clipping Bureau is a Toronto firm that receives newspapers from all over Canada, and periodically returns to the respective editors comments clipped from other newspapers that have used articles from fellow newspapers and given credit for the same. In this respect there are some very outstanding weeklies as well as dailies. There is no other agency that carries the name of any town so far and so favorably as does a reputable newspaper, and it is gratifying to every editor to see his columns frequently quoted.

FEEDING EGGS TO FATTEN CALVES

A Magrath correspondent in the Lethbridge Herald, tells that in that district they are solving the surplus egg problem by feeding them to calves.

A Magrath farm woman tells us that she has successfully raised and fattened young calves by feeding fresh eggs mixed with separate milk. It is a perfect substitute for new milk, and calves thrive on it. Feed one egg beaten and added to the milk at each feeding, increasing until at one month they are getting from two to four eggs a day. Give plenty of fresh water as well, and the addition of calf meal will help a lot to fatten them quickly.

TOURIST TRADE CANADA'S BEST

This Country Gets About One Third Uncle Sam's Total Tourist Expenditure; An Immense Revenue

Canada is in the front rank of the beneficiaries of world tourist trade, for she is in receipt of about one-third of the annual expenditure of the most travelled people, those of the United States. Private and official efforts to promote this business have been extensive and costly, but so slightly remunerative in the last calendar year as to make the receipts the most important on the credit side of her foreign trade; in fact, the estimated sum of $250,000,000 from this source in 1931 went far toward settling this country's large external payment. The promotional expenditures, including advertising, by governments and one railway company are believed to have been as high as $3,000,000 in one year.

We may, therefore, assume that Canada has an immense stake in world tourist trade, from the point of view both of prospective financial returns and of the use of the huge equipment provided for tourists.

Government economy has become the watch-word here, and rightly so, but all the Governments, Dominion and Provincial, should continue their interest in tourist trade. It would be poor economy to relax in the slightest degree the efforts to maintain our share of world tourist business; indeed, it would seem that a still more progressive stand might be taken, not only to attract a larger number of American people, but also in conjunction with the steamship companies, to endeavor to bring a substantial number of visitors from across the Atlantic, with advantage both to the transportation interests and to Canadian business in general.

Tourist trade is the leading branch of Swiss commerce, and in several other countries, notably France, Germany, Italy, Cuba, and Canada, it is a major industry and one of the most important factors in foreign trade accounts. Small wonder, then, that governments the world over have interested themselves in organization and publicity for the purpose of attracting tourists to their countries.—Bank of Commerce Letter.

NATIONALIZATION GREAT BEAR LAKE

Last week Gen. A. D. McRae brought a motion before the Senate that the Federal government control the radium output of Great Bear Lake, thus reserving to the nation a product of almost priceless value.

General McRae suggested that the owners of the pitch blende claims round Great Bear Lake from which the radium is expected, should be remunerated generously. But opposers of the scheme thought that it would prove too costly. They suggest a committee to study the question.

The doubt entertained by the Senators appeared to be whether or not radium could be produced in paying quantities from the pitchblende. For that reason they consider the cost of buying up the claims prohibitive. There are now 700 claims in the district with heavy deposits of silver. An estimate of $5000 to $10,000 a claim might be reasonable to a purchaser, but not to the seller. The initial cost of purchase they consider to be too heavy.

Will Europeans Control?
Another angle of this enterprise, is brought out by Dr. H. W. McGill, M. L.A. who claims that European interests are leaving no stone unturned to secure control of this future radium field. For that reason Dr. McGill considers that the government should step in rather than permit these interests which already monopolize the radium output of the world, to throttle the Canadian field.

Although deprecating the habit of paternalism on the part of governments, Dr. McGill says that if it is a choice of monopoly, it would be infinitely better for the Canadian government to own the field than for an Afro-European company.

"Perhaps it is not generally known that practically the entire output of radium in the world is controlled by the company working the deposits in Central Africa. These workings are carried on with a secretiveness and exclusiveness that are I believe without parallel in any other industry. I have read that the workings are enclosed by impassable barbed wire entanglements and that all unauthorized persons are rigidly excluded. Precautions observed at the diamond mines in Kimberley are feeble in comparison."

"Now I have heard from very good authority that this Afro-European company is moving heaven and earth to acquire control of the Bear Lake deposit, with what object I will leave you to guess," continued Dr. McGill.

Even today the distribution of radium for the North American continent is controlled exclusively by the Radium Chemical Company of New York.

Boon to Mankind
Radium is vitally different from diamonds and gold. It vitally affects the health and well being of the nation and the control of its output would thus be a natural function of government.

GOOD WORK BY LEGION

Highest commendation should be accorded the organization headed by the American Legion, the American Federation of Labor and the Association of National Advertisers for their campaign to demobilize the army of unemployed. Finding jobs for 60,000 men a week, they have now obtained employment for more than 300,000. And the manager of the campaign, reporting to President Hoover, declares that fresh courage and confidence is throughout the nation as a result.

Certainly the march of so many men going back to work must be heartening not only to them but to all who behold the unusual spectacle. It would be difficult to estimate the estimate the effect of their renewed hope—and renewed buying power. These shock troops may carry enough weight to tip the balance toward a general improvement in business, particularly if their number is increased to the 1,000,000 which is the goal.

It is unlikely that reemployed men can be kept long at work unless there is work for them to do, orders for them to fill. But it may be that many employers can find odd jobs or can afford to pay wages and produce for stock until the spending power of these workers is felt. And whatever the theory, 1,000,000 jobs constitute a tremendous fact. Their impact upon an economic machine—which seems to be waiting for a push to start it up the hill again may be decisive.—Christian Science Monitor.

Looking at the News

lutions is directed upon the capital. If the purpose is legitimate and practical, a small deputation will serve better than a large one, but agitators never think so.

In a recent trial a judge directed the jury to find a verdict of not guilty and then said to the accused "If you are guilty, you will have something on your conscience for the rest of your life. This will be a lesson to you." And this is the speech that the accused should have made but did not, "My Lord, you have no business to make any such statement. It will live on my reputation the rest of my life, although I am not guilty. I demand that you take back that statement and have it stricken from the record."

Estate of a net value of $207,996.93 was left by Christopher James Yorath president of the Canadian Western Natural Gas, Light, Heat and Power company, who died on April 2, according to the will which has been filed for probate at the Calgary court house. The estate is largely composed of life insurance carried by the deceased which totalled $211,536.61 (less succession duties). The only beneficiaries are members of the immediate family.

WHEN IN ROME DO AS THEY DO

The Duke of Manchester was making a tour round the world and passed through California. He brought a letter to Mr. Latham, who left a card on him at once and invited him to spend the following night at his country house. The Duke arrived by a late train and was taken at once to his room. The company assembled in the great drawing room, women in Paris gowns and jewels and the men in their poor best.

The English butler announced in faltering accents "His Grace, the Duke of Manchester." All turned expectantly to the door. It was the first time any of them had seen a Duke, and they were agreeably fluttered.

And then the Duke strode in, and they nearly fainted. He wore boots that reached his thighs and a red flannel shirt.

No doubt he nearly fainted, too, when he saw the glittering assemblage of gentlemen and ladies who would not have disgraced his own ancestral halls. Poor man, he was terribly mortified and explained to his suave and smiling host that all he knew about California he had gleaned from the stories of Bret Harte, and he had provided himself with what he believed to be the regulation Western costume, that all whom he met might feel quite at their ease!

The company concluded to take the matter as a huge joke, putting him at once at his ease, and there was never a more successful dinner given at Menlo Park. The Duke invited them all to visit him in England and he went on his way delighted with Californians.—Gertrude Atherton.

THE RICH MAN AND THE RABBI

One day a certain old, rich man, of a miserly disposition visited a rabbi, who took the rich man by hand and led him to a window.

"Look out there," he said. The rich man looked out into the street.

"What do you see?" asked the rabbi.

"I see men, and women, and little children," answered the rich man.

Again the rabbi took him by the hand, and this time led him to a mirror. "What do you see now?"

"Now I see my self," the rich man replied.

Then the rabbi said, "Behold, in the window there is glass, and in the mirror there is glass. But the glass of the mirror is covered with a little silver, and no sooner is the silver added than you cease to see others, and see only yourself!"—War Cry.

A son was born to Major W. D. Herridge and Mrs. Herridge at Ottawa on April 28 at 9.55 a.m.

In 1929 the C.N.R. had 111,383 employees. In 1931 it had 91,416, a reduction of 19,967 men.

An attempt was made to wreck the east-bound C.P.R. near Nelson by use of explosives. The switch exploded immediately after the train had passed over it.

IMPOUNDED NOTICE

Notice is hereby given under Section 48 of The Domestic Animals Act (Municipalities) that one dark steel grey stallion about four years old, no visible brand, was impounded in the pound kept by R. H.
